Coretta
The Story of Coretta Scott King — Commemorative Edition

Octavia Vivian
Foreword by Martin Luther King III

The only authoritative biography of this great civil rights leader

“Octavia Vivian’s book recounts Coretta’s remarkable story from the perspective of a close friend, revealing the strength and heroism of a real person too often obscured by myth and frozen memories.”
— Bill Clinton

“The story of Coretta Scott King occupies a hallowed place in the memory of freedom-loving South Africans and Africans at large.”
— Nelson Mandela

In this first biography of Coretta Scott King, written by her friend Octavia Vivian, the reader meets a determined young girl who grew up in Alabama and worked her way through Antioch College only to discover that she was not allowed to teach in the white schools in Ohio. She pursued a musical career in Boston, where she met Martin Luther King, Jr.

The Montgomery bus boycott in 1955 brought Dr. King and his wife into national prominence. Since then the nation has seen the beauty and composure of Coretta Scott King as she has continued to speak and act on behalf of civil rights.

First published in 1970 by Fortress Press, this commemorative edition has been thoroughly updated, includes a black and white photo gallery, and is full of warmth and human interest, telling the story of Coretta Scott King from her childhood to her death in February 2006.

“This work will help us to know more about her resilience and her courage, and each of us can grow stronger from the knowledge.”
— Maya Angelou

“A new generation of readers will be grateful for this intimate portrait of her extraordinary life.”
— Marian Wright Edelman

Octavia Vivian has worked extensively in the Civil Rights Movement and was a life-long friend of Coretta Scott King. Her husband, C.T. Vivian, was a former member of Dr. King’s executive staff. She lives in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Christian Handbook
An Indispensable Guide to All Things Christian
Kristofer Skrade, Editor

Following Jesus is hard to do — but even harder if we take ourselves too seriously. The Christian Handbook is the indispensable companion for anyone trying to live the Christian life and have a chuckle along the way. Timeless biblical truths stand alongside everyday life situations that everyone meets, with step-by-step instructions that are essential for all Christians.

“The Christian Handbook brought me wonderful spiritual insight and a reason to laugh out loud. When a work is able to do that, I value it, cherish it and try to get all my friends to read it.”

— Maya Angelou

Kristofer Skrade is the New Brand Development Editor at Augsburg Fortress, Publishers. He has led a team of contributors and proofreaders in the creation of the Handbook Series. Previously, Skrade has pastored congregations in Seattle and St. Paul.

Great for engaged couples, newlyweds, and married couples going on their fiftieth year together, The Christian Handbook on Marriage brings wit and wisdom to the sometimes frustrating, but gracious gift of marriage.

The Lutheran Handbook
A Field Guide to Church Stuff, Everyday Stuff, and the Bible
Kristofer Skrade, Editor

The essential guide for all things Lutheran, written in a witty, ironic style, The Lutheran Handbook is the ideal companion for new members or anyone else looking for a handy illustrated guide to Lutheran theology and church culture. The handbook is organized by Church Stuff, Everyday Stuff, and Bible Stuff with lists like “The Top-10 Bible Villains,” and how-to’s like “How to Forgive Someone.” Includes Luther’s Small Catechism.

“From the picture of Luther on the cover (is this his confirmation photo?) to the final pages of ‘tongue in cheek’ humor, these pages are a great mix of what life is all about - hurts and hoorays, Good Fridays and Easters, life and death, praying and playing!”
—Richard Bemler

The Jonah Factor
Thirteen Spiritual Steps to Finding the Job of a Lifetime
Ed Klodt

Finding your true vocation through spiritual self-discovery

Extensively researched, The Jonah Factor provides a step-by-step approach to helping Christians discern what jobs, careers, and volunteer activities will provide the delight and fulfillment God intends. This unique and proven thirteen-step process utilizes a combination of spiritual discernment, an inventory of talents and abilities, and partnership with a church or congregation that culminates in a carefully considered leap of faith.

“Imprisoned by a job you hate? You hold in your hands a GET OUT OF JAIL FREE card!”
— David Murrow, author of Why Men Hate Going to Church

“. . . provides keen insights into the work that God intends for each of us and a unique process to help us discover what God is calling us to do.”
— Wink Martindale, host of TBN’s “Beyond the Game”

“Ed Klodt has nailed it. The largest issue of concern for any wage earner is a sense of fulfillment and being in the right place. The Jonah Factor is compelling, engaging and a must read for anyone who is interested in finding God’s call.”
— Larry Kreider, President, The Gathering, USA

“Martin Luther taught us about ‘vocation’, Rick Warren touched a cultural nerve by addressing ‘Purpose’, now Ed Klodt integrates vocation and purpose as he addresses the struggles and potential blessings in our occupational search for meaning.”
— Howie Wennes, Interim President, California Lutheran University

Ed Klodt is the editor and publisher of Digging Deeper, a syndicated publication of daily devotions (digging-deeper.com). A self-described “Jonah” for many years, Ed has been a senior manger of communications at several Fortune 500 firms. A popular speaker he has been a lay minister and adult education instructor for sixteen years at Ascension Lutheran Church in Thousand Oaks, California.

My Soul Is a Witness
The Message of the Spirituals in Word and Song with Audio CD
Marsha Hansen

For many years Marsha Hansen has helped people hear and see the spiritual depth and power of African-American spirituals. One evening she and Keith Richards, lead guitarist for The Rolling Stones, held an impromptu recording session in his home. Here she combines her voice and her insights into the history, the people, and the circumstances from which these songs arose with the powerful music of six professional musicians, including Keith Richards on lead guitar.

My Soul is a Witness explores the deep messages of faith sung about in African-American sacred folk music. Each chapter closes with a Bible passage for reflection throughout the day. Packaged in a beautiful gift book format, the book includes a CD with the 14-song home recording featuring vocalist Marsha Hansen and guitarist Keith Richards.

Marsha Hansen is a freelance writer and singer. As an African American she was raised singing these spirituals. She is married to Lutheran pastor Rod Hansen, the brother of Patti Hansen, Keith Richard’s wife of twenty-two years. She and her family live in El Paso, Texas.

Pearls of Life
For the Personal Spiritual Journey
Martin Lönnebo, Carolina Welin and Carolina Johansson

Stranded by stormy weather on a small Greek Island, Lutheran Bishop Emeritus Martin Lönnebo created the Pearls of Life concept to guide his own prayer. He shared the idea with others and was amazed at their response and their stories of ever deepening prayer. Over 50,000 copies of the book have been sold in Sweden and Germany.

The beautiful prayer bead bracelet is made of quality glass and ceramic beads, strung on a soft elastic cord and imported from a fair-trade manufacturer in India. The book has full-color photos throughout and describes the meaning of each of the following pearls: The God Pearl, the Pearls of Silence, The I Pearl, The Baptism Pearl, The Desert Pearl, The Serenity Pearl, The Love Pearls, The Mystery Pearls, The Night Pearl, and the Resurrection Pearl.

Suitable for use by youth and adults, congregations may adapt it for use in confirmation classes, study groups, and retreats.

Martin Lönnebo is Bishop Emeritus of the Church of Sweden. Carolina Welin works in communications. Carolina Johansson is a journalist. All three live in Sweden.

Almost everyone has a Last Will and Testament that tells their family and friends what is to become of their property, but few people have thought about the spiritual gifts and memories they’d like to leave their loved ones.

Well-known and beloved author Herbert Brokering here shares the spiritual gifts and intimate memories that he’d like to leave to his family and his readers. As he ponders the grace he has received from the people, places, and events of his life he inspires our own reflection on what we wish to leave to our loved ones. Each chapter includes a Bible passage and key questions for reflection.

Excerpt from chapter one—
“I will you the wind, the prairie wind I have loved. I will you the high wind I can still feel in the tug of the kite string, a wind dancing in the sky above. I will you the wind that whirled across a field and carried leaves and twigs to another farm, to the horizon, and I wished to follow them there. I will you the wind you need as living breath to speak your words and laughter. I will you the wind I was willed. Wind is breath, life. I will you the wind.”

Herbert Brokering is a noted author of books, plays, poems, and music. He is a pastor and popular speaker who has authored more than thirty books including Hello Night! (1999, 0-8066-3837-0). He lives in Bloomington, Minnesota.

Be Still…And Know That I Am God
Devotions for Every Day of the Year
Gus Keiser

A companion for daily prayer and reflection

This daily devotional is based on selected reflections written over a three-year period by the author whose challenging, thought-provoking, and personal reflections invite the reader to pause, be still, and know the presence of God.

Begun as a daily discipline of quiet time, each day includes a Scripture reading, the author’s reflection, and a concluding prayer. An inspiring resource for teens and adults, the book includes special holiday devotions for Christmas, Easter, and more.

Gus Keiser is a forty-year youth ministry veteran, having served as a Parish Assistant and Director of Christian Education and Youth Ministry for twenty years. He has frequently been a workshop leader for both Youth Ministry and Christian Education events in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Gus, his wife Ellie, and their son and daughter live in Greensburg, Pennsylvania.

In September 2003, Wanda Scott Bledsoe’s husband returned from a church work trip to Mexico with an unexplained weakness that grew worse over the next nine months. In this powerful true story the author interviews her husband as they journey together through his illness. In each chapter she offers her experiences in caring for her husband and his responses to his illness and her care.

Each chapter of the book is introduced by Scripture and focuses on the author’s upbeat but realistic sharing of the challenges of a caregiver and care receiver and the faithful ways they met those challenges. Caregiver tips as well as journaling starters are included in each chapter. In addition to serving the needs of caregivers and care receivers, this is a helpful gift for use by counselors and pastors.

Wanda Scott Bledsoe is a freelance writer, noted speaker, and workshop leader. She is the author of His Roses and Thorns, ACW Press, 2003. Milt Bledsoe, her husband of thirty-nine years, is a banker and men’s ministry leader at their church. They live in Murrieta, California, and this is the first book they have written together.

Ending Poverty: A 20/20 Vision
A Guide for Individuals and Congregations
Nancy Maeker and Peter Rogness

Practical strategies and insights for responding to poverty

Ending Poverty invites people from varied faith backgrounds to commit themselves to the study of poverty issues and to just action on behalf of those who experience poverty and prejudice due to class. Stories from four different settings help define poverty, recognize communities of poverty, explore the hidden culture of class, and take a deeper systems view that shows how we are all one community. A practical guide for congregational study groups, this book is a call to action on behalf of the poor.

Nancy Maeker is bishop’s associate in the St. Paul Area Synod of the ELCA. She has written this study resource as part of her work in leading an ongoing focus on poverty in the synod. Peter Rogness is Bishop of the St. Paul Area Synod. He wrote the final draft and commentary of the synod document “The Common Foundation: Shared Principles for Work on Overcoming Poverty.” Both authors live in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Hurricanes Katrina and Rita caused enormous damage and loss of life in the Gulf Coast region in late summer and fall of 2005. Lutherans living in the region and church buildings near the destruction were hit with great losses. The crisis called forth an outpouring of aid and service that continues even today.

The book tells the story of how the Lutheran church and its people have responded to the suffering of those most affected by the storms. Following Jesus’ admonition to love and serve those in need, the church has worked in partnership with synods and congregations to bring hope and healing to many in the region. Included are powerful firsthand accounts, insightful theological reflections, questions for group use.

A portion of the proceeds of each book will be donated to the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast Synod Disaster Relief Fund.

Paul Blom is the Bishop of the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Kathryn Haueisen is Associate Pastor at Christ the King Lutheran Church in Houston, Texas.

God is up to something! God is on a mission to bless and save the world, and God calls the church to be part of this mission. That means getting focused, setting people free, taking action, expecting surprises, and being hopeful. A church on God’s mission isn’t a building or a building plus a pastor. It’s people—people who carry out God’s mission in the world.

Building on her bestselling book, Reclaiming the “L” Word: Renewing the Church from Its Lutheran Core, Kelly A. Fryer gives practical advice on how to transform our idea of church and what that means for our lives as Christians.

Kelly A. Fryer is a missiologist with nearly 20 years experience leading congregations in renewal. She is the author of the best-selling Reclaiming the “L” Word: Renewing the Church from Its Lutheran Core and writer for the No Experience Necessary Bible study series (both Augsburg Fortress). Kent taught congregational leadership at Luther Seminary in St. Paul, Minnesota, and now serves as executive director of A.R.E.: A Renewal Enterprise, which offers keynote speaking, renewal events, organizational consulting, and leadership coaching.

Kent V. Wilson provides the “why,” “how,” and “what” for churches considering using media in worship, or for those exploring and evaluating how to better use media in worship.

Divided into three sections, this practical and engaging book discusses the “why” questions surrounding media in worship, the “how” questions about worship space, team-building, and visual literacy, and the “what” questions of where to get resources. All these questions and more are answered, together with an enclosed DVD that provides actual media resources for you to use in your church.

The DVD contains ready-to-use graphics for a multi-week series built around the “Bread of Life” series of Bible readings (from John 6), and video interviews with church leaders across the country as they recount their experiences of using media in worship. Links to a free website are also included. There, you will find forms, model team mission statements, and more.

Kent V. Wilson has successfully implemented media in worship at several traditional churches and has presented both regionally and nationally on the use of media in worship. He is senior pastor at Zion Lutheran Church in Lima, Ohio.

Historical fascination with women of the Bible has contributed a great wealth of artistic images, literature, legends, fables, and religious poetry to Western traditions. From heroic figures such as Judith and Esther to deep friends like Ruth and Naomi, the Bible presents a plenitude of women whose deeds and desires have inspired Western art and culture for more than two thousand years.

Culled from a larger, more expensive volume by the same authors first published by Eerdmans in 1994, this beautiful volume focuses on fifteen biblical characters and gloriously presents not only their stories but also more than 200 art-historical images of them, along with searching commentary by the late theologian Dorothee Soelle and discussion of their post-biblical legacies in art and literature by historian Joe Kirchberger.

The figures discussed include Eve and Lilith, Sarah and Hagar, Tamar, Ruth and Naomi, Abigail, Judith, Esther, the woman who anointed Jesus, Mary of Magdala, Mary and Martha, and many more. This is a beautiful gift book with real substance.

Dorothee Soelle was Professor of Theology at Union Theological Seminary, New York City, for thirteen years. Among her many influential writings are Great Couples of the Bible (2005; 0-8006-3831-X), Theology for Skeptics (1994; 0-8006-2788-1), and The Silent Cry (2001; 0-8006-3266-4). She died in 2003.

Joe H. Kirchberger is an historian and journalist. He is co-author with Soelle of a book on Mary and editor of a 19-volume set of eyewitness reminiscences of World War I. He lives in New York City.
Truth and Christian Imagination series
Stimulating the mind and the heart to deepen our understanding of the Christian faith

Redemption
Alister McGrath

Illuminated by a series of fine art paintings, Alister McGrath’s new volume seeks to engage both the mind and the imagination as he vividly explores the divine compassion that led God to sacrifice his only Son in order to save a world oppressed and unable to help itself.

Poetry, prayer and theological reflection are interwoven with commentary on the ideas conveyed through Sir Edward John Poynter’s The Prodigal’s Return, Amédéo Bocchi’s On the Lawn (illustrating the theme of adoption), Jacopo Bassano’s The Last Supper, Caravaggio’s The Taking of Christ, Antonio Ciseri’s Ecce Homo, Salvador Dalí’s Christ of St John of the Cross and El Greco’s Pietà. The result helps us not only to engage more fully with the gospel narratives, but also to come to a greater understanding of the truth and the reality of our Christian faith. This is a wonderful gift book.

“Alister McGrath brings life to topics that would turn to dust in others’ hands.”
—Publishers Weekly

Alister McGrath is Professor of Historical Theology at Oxford University, Director of the Oxford Centre for Evangelism and Apologetics, and consulting editor of Christianity Today. He lives in England.

Sharing Food
Christian Practices for Enjoyment

L. Shannon Jung

A Christian guide to a more abundant life

O ur everyday personal, familial, and communal practices of eating, says Jung, have the potential for making us more attentive to our life purposes, more attuned to our communal identities, and even more mindful of the presence of God.

Juxtaposing practices with values, Jung explores how food and eating function culturally today. He explores the larger dimensions of personal and group eating, the great resonance that feasting and food and fasting have within the Christian tradition, and how all this figures very practically in Christian lifestyle. His work culminates in a chapter on the Lord’s Supper as a model for eating and the Eucharist as an occasion for sharing with the worldwide family of God.

“Food is a life-sustaining gift from God, which is why justice demands that we create a world where all can eat nutritiously. Sharing Food will cause readers to be more mindful of how we relate to this gift.”
— Rev. David Beckman, Bread for the World

Encountering Jesus & Buddha
Their Lives and Teachings
Ulrich Luz and Axel Michaels; Translated by Linda M. Maloney

For those wanting to come into grips with some of the fundamental similarities and differences between Buddhism and Christianity, and reflect about the one in the light of the other, this sympathetic, if at times controversial, book can be recommended as a good place to start and would provide an introduction to some of the important tools needed for one’s own critical engagement with the issues.”

— Paul Williams, University of Bristol and author of The Unexpected Way: On Converting from Buddhism to Catholicism

Themes include the relative importance of Jesus and the Buddha within Christianity and Buddhism and their different perspectives on the self, the self’s future, love, and ethics. They explore Jesus’ and the Buddha’s different notions of passion and suffering, meditation, prayer, and commitment to the world, history, and community.

Epilogue: Can Buddhism Heal Christianity?

Ulrich Luz, Professor of New Testament at the University of Bern, Switzerland, is co-editor of the Evangelisch-Katholischen Kommentar series (EKK) and of the journal Evangelische Theologie.

Axel Michaels is an Indologist and Comparative Religionist, and Professor of Classical Indology at the Southeast Asia Institute of the University of Heidelberg.
The Unfolding Drama of the Bible
Fourth Edition
Bernhard W. Anderson

In print since 1952—this new edition explores what the Bible is all about

In this concise and accessible volume, newly revised, one of the most revered contemporary biblical theologians introduces the first-time reader to the dramatic sweep of the Bible in eight carefully crafted study sessions, reminding even veteran readers of the Bible’s central messages. Study resources and discussion questions, now carefully updated, make this book the ideal resource for introductory Bible courses and adult inquirer classes.

“In this new edition, Anderson’s readable and perceptive study book provides one of the most accessible brief presentations of what the Bible is about that one will find anywhere.”
— Patrick D. Miller, Princeton Theological Seminary

Like Fire in the Bones
Listening for the Prophetic Word in Jeremiah

Walter Brueggemann
Edited by Patrick D. Miller

Fiery insights on the prophetic call—then and now

“No scholar of this generation has had a greater fire in his bones for communicating the word of God than Walter Brueggemann. These essays on Jeremiah exemplify his insistence that criticism should lead to interpretation, and remind us again why prophets like Jeremiah still matter in the 21st century.”

—John J. Collins, Holmes Professor of Old Testament, Yale

The Word That Redescribes the World
The Bible and Discipleship
Walter Brueggemann; Edited by Patrick D. Miller

In the last several years, Walter Brueggemann's writings have directly addressed the situation of Christian communities in today's globalized context, with its consumerist lifestyles, vast inequalities, and near-imperial exercises of power. Here, in the people Israel Brueggemann finds a model of an alternative community—anchored in YHWH, ever exploring new possibilities, and prophetically bent against empire.

The Book That Breathes New Life
Scriptural Authority and Biblical Theology
Walter Brueggemann; Edited by Patrick D. Miller

“Walter Brueggemann, one of the most brilliant speakers, writers, and thinkers in Old Testament theology, again has a collection of his articles edited, this time on his most favorite subject, the authority and theology of the Bible. Thirteen essays engage in the details and developments of the field. They are mining trenches in a fertile territory, and the miner does come up with so many surprising discoveries: Walter Brueggemann at his best.”

Scholarship on the historical Jesus and, now, on the “Jesus movement” generally divides into separate camps around two sticky questions: was Jesus an apocalyptic prophet and was the movement around him political, that is nationalistic or revolutionary? Mary Ann Beavis moves the study of the historical Jesus in a dramatic new direction as she highlights the context of ancient utopian thought and utopian communities, drawing particularly on the Essene community and Philo’s discussion of the Therapeutae, and argues that only ancient utopian thought accounts for the lack of explicit political echoes in Jesus’ message of the kingdom of God.

Contents
• Introduction: Ancient Utopias, Jesus, and the Kingdom of God
• Ancient, Classical, and Hellenistic Utopias
• Biblical Utopias: From Eden to the Kingdom of God
• Ideal Communities in Early Judaism: Essenes, Therapeutae, Havurot
• Jesus and the Kingdom of God in Biblical Scholarship
• Jesus’ Preaching of the Kingdom of God in Utopian Context
• Conclusion: From Basileia to Ekklesia

Mary Ann Beavis is Associate Professor of Religious Studies at St. Thomas More College, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, and author of several books and articles in the fields of New Testament studies and urban studies. She was founding editor of The Journal of Religion and Popular Culture and The Canadian Journal of Urban Research.

Even as theologians and others have become more critical of classic theories of atonement, Brondos maintains, biblical scholars have continued to understand Paul’s soteriology based on the language and categories of a thousand years later. In this vital volume he draws the theological consequences of the “new perspective” on Paul for our understanding of the meaning and efficacy of Jesus’ death.

Paul, says Brondos, understood Jesus’ death primarily as the consequence of his mission of serving as God’s instrument to bring about the awaited redemption of Israel, in which Gentiles throughout the world would also be included. For Paul, Jesus’ death is salvific, not because it satisfies some necessary condition for human salvation as most doctrines of the atonement have traditionally maintained, nor because it effects some change in the situation of human beings or the world in general, but because God responded to Jesus’ faithfulness unto death by raising him, ensuring that all the divine promises of salvation would be fulfilled through him.

Jesus’ death forms part of an overarching story culminating in the redemption of Israel and the world; it is this story, and in particular what precedes and follows Jesus’ death on the cross, which makes that death redemptive for Paul.

David A. Brondos is Professor of Theology at the Theological Community of Mexico, an ecumenical consortium of seminaries in Mexico City, where he teaches systematic theology and biblical studies. An ordained ELCA minister, he is author of The Letter and the Spirit: Discerning God’s Will in a Complex World (Augsburg Fortress 2005, 0-8066-4935-6)
Engaging the Bible
Critical Readings from Contemporary Women
Edited by Choi Hee An and Katheryn Pfisterer Darr

A chorus of women’s voices engaging the Bible critically

Bringing together some of the leading luminaries in feminist, womanist, and multicultural critical biblical studies in this book, each woman describes her unique perspective and offers her reading of a particular biblical scene. This is an ideal text for courses on feminist and multicultural biblical interpretation and includes discussion questions for each chapter and a list of suggested readings.

Hermeneia on CD-ROM
A Historical and Critical Commentary
Peter Machinist, Chair, Old Testament Board
Helmut Koester, Chair, New Testament Board

A Monumental Publishing Event—First Time on CD-ROM!

Anchored by a renowned board of editors, the monumental Hermeneia project has over the last 40 years produced many of the most authoritative and influential commentaries on the Bible in the English-speaking world.

Hermeneia is widely acclaimed for:

- careful text-critical work by the leading scholars in the field
- use of extra-biblical (Ancient Near Eastern and Greco-Roman) sources
- fresh translations of the texts
- bold yet authoritative interpretations
- inclusion of important noncanonical works

All the previously published Old Testament, New Testament, and extracanonical volumes of this premier Bible commentary are now available on CD-ROM in an extremely useful and navigable electronic format, powered by the Libronix Digital Library System.

Hermeneia on CD-ROM captures the full text and apparatus of each volume and adds features that facilitate daily use in scholarship, teaching, and preaching, including:

- fully searchable text of all Hermeneia volumes
- hoverlinks to the NRSV edition of the Bible
- capability for notetaking, bookmarking, and footnoting

Every two years as new volumes in the series are published, Hermeneia on CD-ROM will be updated with new CD-ROM versions readily available to previous purchasers at an “update only” price.

Deeply conversant in the full range of questions and interpretations of the letter, Jewett’s commentary explores the crucial and controverted passages that have always animated studies of Romans. Jewett also incorporates the exciting new insights from archaeology of the city of Rome, social history of early Christianity, social-scientific work on early Christianity, and the interpretation and reception of Paul’s letter through the ages.

Breaking free from abstract approaches that defend traditional theologies, Jewett shows that the entire letter aims to elicit support for Paul’s forthcoming mission to the “barbarians” in Spain. His work specifically focuses on Paul’s missionary plans and how they figure in the letter, on Paul’s critical and constructive tack with the Roman community, and finally and especially on how Paul’s letter reframes the entire system of honor and shame as it informed life in the Roman Empire at the time. The latter remains a pertinent message today. The first commentary to interpret Romans within the imperial context as well as in the light of the situation in Spain, this landmark commentary, twenty-five years in the making, will set the standard for interpretation of Romans for the next generation.

Robert Jewett is Visiting Professor of New Testament at the University of Heidelberg, Germany. He is the author of numerous books including Captain America and the Crusade against Evil: The Dilemma of Zealous Nationalism, with John Shelton Lawrence (Wm. B. Eerdmans, 2003).
The fourth volume in A People’s History of Christianity series accents the astounding range of cultural and religious experience within medieval Christianity and the ways in which religious life structured all aspects of the daily lives of ordinary Christians.

With ranking scholars from the U.S. and the Continent, this volume explores rituals of birth and death, daily parish life, lay-clerical relations, and relations with Jews and Muslims through a thousand years and many lands. Includes 50 illustrations, maps, and an 8-page color gallery.

The contributors include: Derek Krueger, University of North Carolina, Greensboro; Yitzhak Hen, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev; Bonnie Effros, State University of New York at Binghamton; Daniel Bornstein, Texas A&M University; Richard Kieckhefer, Northwestern University; Gary Dickson, University of Edinburgh; Andre Vauchez, Ecole Française de Rome; Roberto Rusconi, Universita degli studi di Roma; Grado G. Merlo, Universita degli studi di Milano; Teofilo Ruiz, UCLA; Diana Webb, King’s College London; Katherine French, State University of New York at New Paltz; and Robert N. Swanson, University of Birmingham.

Daniel E. Bornstein is Professor of History at Texas A&M University. An historian of medieval and Renaissance Italy, Daniel Bornstein works on the role of religion in everyday life. He is co-editor (with Roberto Rusconi) of Women and Religion in Medieval and Renaissance Italy (1996, University of Chicago Press).
Perhaps no period in Christian history experienced such social tumult and upheaval as the Reformation, as it quickly became apparent that social and political issues, finding deep resonance with the common people, were deeply entwined with religious ones raised by the Reformers.

Led by eminent Reformation historian Peter Matheson, this volume of A People’s History of Christianity explores such topics as child-bearing, a good death, rural and village piety, and more. Includes 50 illustrations, maps, and an 8-page color gallery.

The contributors include: Peter Matheson, University of Melbourne College of Divinity; Keith Luria, North Carolina State University; Raymond Mentzer, University of Iowa; Margo Todd, Vanderbilt University; Karen Spierling, University of Louisville; Merry Wiesner-Hanks, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee; David Cressy, Ohio State University; Peter Marshall, University of Warwick; James Stayer, Queen’s University Kingston; Elsie McKee, Princeton Theological Seminary; and Susan Boettcher, University of Texas at Austin.

Peter Matheson is past Principal of the Theological College at the University of Melbourne. Among his many publications are The Imaginative World of the Reformation (2001, 0-8006-3291-5).
Most college and seminary courses on the New Testament include discussions of the process that gave shape to the New Testament. Now David Dungan re-examines the primary source for this history, the Ecclesiastical History of the fourth-century Bishop Eusebius of Caesarea, in the light of Hellenistic political thought. He reaches startling new conclusions: that we usually use the term “canon” incorrectly; that the legal imposition of a “canon” or “rule” upon scripture was a fourth- and fifth-century phenomenon enforced with the power of the Roman imperial government; that the forces shaping the New Testament canon are much earlier than the second-century crisis occasioned by Marcion, and that they are political forces.

Dungan discusses how the scripture selection process worked, book-by-book, as he examines the criteria used—and not used—to make these decisions. Finally he describes the consequences of the emperor Constantine’s tremendous achievement in transforming orthodox, Catholic Christianity into imperial Christianity.

“Dungan’s study of what Constantine and Eusebius did toward establishing that unity will be the touchstone in future discussions of the New Testament canon.”
— James A. Sanders, Professor Emeritus of Old Testament and Intertestamental Literature, Claremont School of Theology, Claremont, California.

“I commend the book to those who want to learn more about the complexity of canon formation and who also want to be stretched in their thinking.”
— Lee Martin McDonald, Acadia Divinity College

David Dungan is Professor of Religion at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville and author, with David R. Cartlidge, of Documents for the Study of the Gospels, rev. and enlarged edition (1994, 0-8006-2809-8).
This is the first paperback edition of the enlightening Oxford University hardcover published in 2002.

Glancy here situates early Christian slavery in its broader cultural setting, arguing that modern scholars have consistently underestimated the pervasive impact of slavery on the institutional structures, ideologies, and practices of the early churches — and upon the bodies of the enslaved. Her careful attention to the bodily experience of subjection and violation that constituted slavery makes this an indispensable book for anyone interested in slavery in early Christianity. Includes special chapters on Jesus and Paul.

Contents
• Bodies and Souls: The Rhetoric of Slavery
• Body Work: Slavery and the Pauline Churches
• Body Language: Corporal Anxiety and Christian Theology
• Parabolic Bodies: The Figure of the Slave in the sayings of Jesus
• Moral Bodies: Ecclesiastical Development and Slaveholding Culture

“This book is required reading for anyone interested in ancient slavery, the parables, or the history of the body in antiquity.”

— Catholic Biblical Quarterly

Jennifer A. Glancy is Joseph C. Georg Professor of Religious Studies at Le Moyne College in Syracuse, New York. The chair of the Bible and Cultural Studies section of the Society of Biblical Literature, she has written numerous articles on issues of gender and culture in early Jewish and Christian writings.

“Understanding Islam is a model in the genre. It will surely be of the greatest help not only for students of religious studies but for the general reader interested in grasping what the faith and way of life of Muslims are essentially about, far away from the caricatures too often privileged in our time.”

—Yahya Michot, Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies, Oxford University

The faith of a billion Muslims today, developed over fourteen centuries, is sympathetically and skillfully presented in this marvelous introduction. Hewer’s extensive knowledge and contextually sensitive presentation yield an exceptionally rich and faithful account, presupposing no prior knowledge of the traditions, without orientalist, Western, or Christian biases. Includes diagrams, glossary, and easy to follow references to the Qur’an.

This widely acclaimed introduction to modern Christian thought, formerly published by Prentice Hall, provides full, scholarly accounts of the major movements and thinkers, theologians and philosophers in the Christian tradition since the eighteenth-century Enlightenment, together with solid historical background and critical assessments. This second edition deals with the entire modern period, in both Europe and America, and is the first to include extensive treatment of modern Catholic thinkers, Evangelical thought, and Black and Womanist theology.

“Livingston’s Modern Christian Thought has set the standard in the field since it was originally published. The two-volume second edition, which includes several new chapters, is quite simply the best treatment of modern theology that I know, and it is ideally organized for classroom use.”
— Garrett Green, Professor of Religious Studies, Connecticut College

“Professor Livingston’s two-volume history of modern Christian thought is a remarkable achievement. At once thorough, succinct, eminently readable, and rooted in primary sources, they guide students and professors alike through perhaps the most difficult period in the entire history of theology with a deftness and sureness of expression that gives dedicated readers confidence that they are coming away with an authoritative grasp.”
— David G. Schultenover, S.J., Professor of Historical Theology, Marquette University

James C. Livingston is Professor of Religious Studies Emeritus at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia. Francis Schüssler Fiorenza is Charles Chauncy Stillman Professor of Roman Catholic Studies at Harvard Divinity School. Sarah Coakley is Edwin Mallinckrodt Professor of Divinity at Harvard Divinity School. James H. Evans Jr. is Robert K. Davies Professor of Systematic Theology at the Colgate Rochester Crozer Divinity School. Among his many publications are We Shall All Be Changed: Social Problems and Theological Renewal (1997, 0-8006-3084-X) and We Have Been Believers: An African American Systematic Theology (1993, 0-8006-2672-9).
The lively interest today in the historical figure of Jesus is rarely matched by theological advances in understanding his person and significance for our own time and worldview. Gordon Kaufman takes up this challenge in this bold, speculative work.

Despite the fabled difficulties of traditional Christological terms, few theologians since Tillich and Teilhard have sought to re-envision the symbol of Jesus within the contemporary scientific worldview. Building on his notion of God as simply creativity, Kaufman here locates the meaning of Jesus’ salvific story within an evolving universe and a threatened planet.

Outside the dualistic categories of the biblical worldview, he finds, the enormously creative and influential figure of the historic Jesus can have a vital role in the emergence and development of the cosmos and human history. Within that role, he argues, Jesus, his relation to God, and his centrality to Christian faith become clearer and our own lives and actions take on a new meaning.

Gordon D. Kaufman is Edwin Mallinckrodt Jr. Professor of Theology Emeritus at Harvard Divinity School. His many important theological works include God—Mystery—Diversity (1996, 0-8006-2959-0) and In the beginning…Creativity (2004, 0-8006-3684-8).

While traditional Christian thought and spirituality have always affirmed the divine presence in human life, Thatamanil argues we have much to learn from non-dualistic Hindu thought, especially that of the eighth-century thinker Sankara, and from the Christian panentheism of Paul Tillich. Thatamanil compares their diagnoses and prognoses of the human predicament in light of their doctrine of God or Ultimate Reality. What emerges is a new theology of God and human beings, with a richer and more radical conception of divine immanence, a reconceived divine transcendence, and a keener sense of how the dynamic and active Spirit at work in us anchors real hope and deep joy.

Using key insights from Christian and Hindu thought Thatamanil vindicates comparative theology, expands the vocabulary about the ineffable God, and arrives at a new construal of the problems and prospects of the human condition.

“The Immanent Divine vividly demonstrates how comparative theology is a quickly maturing discipline, able to engage fundamental and wide-reaching human and religious issues.”
— Francis X. Clooney, S.J., Harvard Divinity School

John J. Thatamanil is Assistant Professor of Theology at Vanderbilt Divinity School, Nashville, Tennessee. His prior teaching has been at Boston University and at Millsaps College. He is past President of the North American Paul Tillich Society.

In today’s theological landscape the significance of the cross has become strongly affirmed and radically questioned. This exciting volume gathers theologians and historians who have thought through these critical and constructive issues: Do traditional understandings of the cross valorize suffering or violence? Are the older soteriological models, which see redemption as a kind of ransom or debt satisfaction, fitting for the contemporary worldview? Do they produce a piety that acquiesces in needless suffering, or does the cross precisely meet the massive suffering and injustice of today’s world?

Following an expert introduction to the issues and options by editor Marit Trelstad, each author addresses the Christian symbol of the cross in the context of current theological, sociological, political, or environmental issues.

The contributors are Delores Williams, Rita Nakashima Brock, Rosemary P. Carbine, Jay McDaniel, Jürgen Moltmann, Douglas John Hall, Deanna Thompson, Mary Solberg, Alicia Vargas, Cynthia Moe-Lobeda, James N. Poling, J. Denny Weaver, Susan Nelson, JoAnne Marie Terrell, Mark Lewis Taylor, and Marit Trelstad.

Marit A. Trelstad teaches Constructive Theology and Lutheran Theology in the Department of Religion at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, Washington.
“Dr. Sally Palmer Thomason gives us a view of aging that is sane, scientific, and sensible. In our youth-obsessed age, we would do well to listen to her wisdom.”

— Larry Dossey, MD, author of The Extraordinary Healing Power of Ordinary Things

Sally Thomason’s research and reflection on aging disclose the scientific and medical oversights and cultural biases that inform our attitudes toward aging. Based on the personal experiences and stories of dozens of women interviewed, Thomason proposes strong, new, holistic perspectives that can overcome our cultural misconceptions and animate personal, medical, and religious work by and with the aging.

“Unlike many in its field, this book really does deliver what its title promises. With a scholar’s tools and her singularly deft hand in employing them, Thomason mines the riches of the aging process, interlacing interviews and statistical reports with insights and applications.”

— Phyllis Tickle, author of The Divine Hours

Sally Palmer Thomason is former Dean of the Meeman Center for Special Studies at Rhodes College in Memphis, Tennessee. She has written both popular and scholarly articles on aging and presented workshops to medical, church, and lay groups.
Monsay identifies the new metaphors, analogies, myths, and models for theology from the frontiers of physics, especially superstring theories and M-theory. Exciting new ways to think about and talk about God and God’s action in the world emerge from this parallel quest for the ultimate.

In this short but illuminating piece, world-renowned biologist Francisco Ayala addresses the notion of intelligent design—the notion that individual species are too complex to have developed through evolution and therefore must be the work of an intelligent designer, God.

Ayala shows first just what the theory of evolution claims, and the range of questions it can answer. He then turns to the notion of intelligent design, as it is expounded today, and its weaknesses as a scientific or even a theological explanation of the complexity of the universe and all its creatures. Ayala’s treatment is especially valuable for its clarity about the respective roles and provinces of science, faith, and theology.

Contents
1. Intelligent Design: The Original Version
2. Darwin’s Revolution: Design without Designer
3. Arguing for Evolution
4. Intelligent Design’s Fatal Flaws
5. Beyond Biology

Francisco J. Ayala is University Professor and Donald Bren Professor of Biological Sciences, Ecology and Evolutionary Biology, and Professor of Philosophy, at the University of California, Irvine. Author of dozens of research articles in evolutionary genetics, he is also recipient of dozens of international medals, including the 2001 National Medal of Science.

Eric W. Gritsch ties Luther’s wit and humor to his sharp polemical exploitation of the absurd or incongruous in service to his Reform. At a deeper level Luther’s wit and witticisms reflected his keen appreciation of human frailty and the unknowability of things divine.

The seasons of our lives change. Using a model of orientation—disorientation—new orientation, Brueggemann explores how the genres of the Psalms can be viewed in terms of their function. This results in fresh readings of these ancient songs that illuminate their spiritual depth. The voices of the Psalms come through in all their bold realism.

Does the Bible Justify Violence?

John J. Collins

Renowned biblical scholar John J. Collins asks tough questions about the relationship between the portrayals of violence in the Bible and how they have been used throughout history. The Crusaders, Puritans, and abolitionists all used the Bible to justify their use of violence—and this process continues. In light of today’s religious and political rhetoric, how shall we interpret these ancient documents? How can we understand the biblical stories, prophecies, and songs in their historical contexts and avoid making self-serving and even violent use of them?

The Complete Facets series

What difference does theological thinking make? Does Christianity have any relevance for our secular, globalized, environmentally threatened world? Specifically formulated for undergraduate and seminary courses in theology, this volume answers a resounding yes.

Gathering many respected and original Christian thinkers who have been inspired by the example and work of theologian Sallie McFague, this book engages such topics as God, Christ, revelation, eschatology, and church in three intertwined and pressing areas: (1) our religious life and language in a secularized, pluralistic society, (2) our newly globalized economic life, and (3) our threatened environmental life.

Contributors to this project include: Ellen Armour, Daniel Deffenbaugh, Eleazar Fernandez, David Jensen, Gordon Kaufman, Catherine Keller, Jay McDaniel, Sallie McFague, Darby Kathleen Ray, Joerg Rieger, Marcia Riggs, Nancy Victorin-Vangerud, Mark Wallace, and Sharon Welch.

Darby Kathleen Ray is Associate Professor of Religious Studies and Director of the Millsaps Faith and Work Initiative at Millsaps College in Jackson, Mississippi.

Although Christianity began as a dissident movement and in the Reformation recreated itself through dissent, traditional Christianity has always been uneasy with dissent and pluralism. Whether directed against the church itself or the larger society, dissent has been most often met with ridicule and persecution.

Lively and engaging, Cooey’s highly relevant book retrieves and valorizes the reforming impulse from Reformation times, follows it back through the early church’s internal and external battles, and traces it back to Jesus himself. She shows how a strong affirmation of dissent as a Christian duty can inform a more open and faithful church as well as a publically relevant theology and ethics.

In this excellent and accessible introduction, now in a second edition, Childs helpfully articulates the shared features of Christian faith and shows how that communal commitment forms our values, character, virtues, and “eagerness to do what is right.” Who we are informs what we choose. This dynamic, dialogical basis for ethics is an open framework. Childs applies it to a host of tough, real-life dilemmas such as affirmative action, end-of-life decisions, medical ethics, truth telling, environmental justice, and war-making.

Previously published by Fortress Press in 1992 as Faith, Formation, and Decision, the new edition updates discussions throughout, adds numerous cases and illustrations, adds questions for discussion and items for further reading, and contains a new section on courage.

What is Christian mission in a world post-everything? This volume is a masterful rethinking of the problems and prospect of the Christian vocation to mission in light of the whole checkered legacy—religious, philosophical, colonial, and economic—of modernity.

Kirk draws on his considerable experience of worldwide mission and his expertise in modern Western thought to throw light on all the most burning questions, such as:

- What kinds of mission initiatives are appropriate today?
- Is it legitimate to invite adherents of different religions to follow Jesus?
- What role have Christians played in advocating violence, and also in being agents of peace and reconciliation?

He has traveled widely on all continents and retired in 2002 from his teaching position at the University of Birmingham, England. Renowned liturgical theologian Gordon Lathrop has composed a rich, meditative, and explicitly ecumenical spirituality for working pastors—whatever and wherever they are called: preachers, priests, elders, ministers, seminarians.

In Part One Lathrop urges pastors to become lifelong students of the Lord’s Prayer, the Apostle’s Creed, and the Commandments, continually inhabiting the questions, reversals and paradoxes of Christian life.

In Part Two he elaborates on the pastor’s chief activities—presiding at the holy table, preaching, collecting for the poor—as the center and focus for pastoral identity and spirituality.” Lathrop invites pastors to recenter their busy lives on God and fuel their ministry through prayer.

Gordon W. Lathrop is Charles A. Schieren Professor of Liturgy, Emeritus, at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

First published in hardcover by Fortress Press in 1999, this sequel to Gordon Lathrop’s highly successful Holy Things is an exercise in liturgical theology, viewing the activities of worship as a means of defining and discussing the concept “church.”

In hopes of invigorating the local church, Lathrop explores the meaning of the term “church,” the relationship of the local liturgical assembly and other Christian assemblies (catholicity); the personal and communal character of liturgical assembly; the unity of the churches; the critical principles of liturgy and culture; openness to what is radically other; and liturgical evangelization. Lathrop centers on community and assembly to discuss the sacraments and focuses on ecumenism and enculturation as central test cases for a liturgically derived idea of church.

Gordon W. Lathrop is Charles A. Schieren Professor of Liturgy Emeritus at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.
This book is a full scale disciplinary framework for pastoral psychotherapists/pastoral counselors at intermediate and advanced levels of clinical training and also for experienced pastoral counselors and psychotherapists in professional practice. It harvests the great potential of postmodern sensibilities to help, accompany, and support individuals, couples, and families in recognizing and healing especially painful psychic wounds, and/or longstanding patterns of self-defeating relationships to self and others.

Pamela Cooper-White’s widely praised work, which has always integrated cutting-edge notions from the social sciences into pastoral therapy, here takes a distinctive and promising turn toward the relational and the theological. Pastoral psychotherapy, she argues, needs to find its framework in a strongly relational idea of the person, God, and health. Illustrated throughout by four key case studies, Cooper-White shows in Part 1 how multiplicity and relationality provide a dynamic and exciting way of viewing human potential and pain. In Part 2 she unfolds the practical applications of this paradigm for a strongly empathic therapeutic relationship and process.

“Cooper-White’s correlation of postmodern approaches to both religion and psychoanalytic psychotherapy provides a long-needed textbook for theologically-educated psychotherapists. . . . The case studies are compelling. . . .”
— Carrie Doehring, PhD, Iliff School of Theology

New Proclamation
Year C, 2007: Easter through Christ the King

Edited by David B. Lott

The indispensable resource for preaching that is biblical yet contemporary

Keyed to the Revised Common Lectionary, Book of Common Prayer, and Roman Catholic Lectionary for Mass, the Proclamation legacy continues to offer the best in creative, searching, and responsible interpretation of the biblical lectionary texts.

Not only is New Proclamation ecumenical in orientation, offering exegesis and homiletic reflection for readings for half the church year in each volume, it also offers an overarching strategy for approaching each season and ways to connect one’s homily or sermon to the salient features of contemporary life. Anchored in expert exegesis, the preacher is able to craft effective, gospel-centered sermons that proclaim a gospel true to tradition and our times.

ORDERING INFORMATION

To ensure efficient order service, order by book or product ISBN and title. Date your order and assign each order a specific purchase order number to simplify any possible later reference. Also, it is important that you include your Augsburg Fortress Publishers account number on all purchase orders, mail, fax or phone. This number appears on all invoices and statements and will aid us in efficiently handling your order. Promotional materials are available without charge; please call for availability. Additional product information can be found on our website at augsburgfortress.org (U.S.) and afcanada.com (Canada).

NEW CUSTOMER ACCOUNTS

With initial orders, please mail or fax credit references and a copy of state resale tax certificate, or call for our credit application.

TERMS

- Net 30 days from date of invoice
- Retailer pays actual freight charges, per shipment

DEALER RETURNS POLICY FOR PRODUCTS IN THIS CATALOG

- No permission is required on returnable products.
- Book and curriculum returns are accepted provided that the product is in-print and in resalable condition no earlier than 90 days from the invoice date and no later than one year from invoice date.
- Original invoice date and/or purchase order number must be included in all returns and returns-related correspondence.
- If invoice and/or purchase order is not provided or found, credit will be issued at 60% off retail price.
- Returns of out of print titles will not be accepted.
- Print-on-demand titles are not returnable (marked in the index with NR).
- Other product returns are not permitted.
- Audiocassettes, compact discs, computer products, and videocassettes have the same terms as our regular returns policy, provided the shrink-wrap is not broken and is free of dealer marks or labels.
- Merchandise returned in unsaleable condition will be returned to retailer at the retailer’s expense.
- Contact our Customer Service Center if you need assistance or additional information on return options for other products.
