

Contents

Contributors	xi
Acknowledgments	xv
Foreword	xvii
Emma Wild-Wood
Introduction	xxi
Jason S. Sexton and Paul Weston
Part I. Theology and Mission in Dialogue
1. A Missional Approach to Scripture for the Theological Task	3
Michael W. Goheen
2. Widening the Frame on Redemptive History: A Response to Michael Goheen	21
Justin Stratis
3. More Scripture, Please! A Protestant Approach to Appropriating Tradition for Theology Today	35
Bradley G. Green
4. Past-Embracing, Dynamically Present, Future-Oriented: A Missiological Appropriation of Tradition for Theology's Task	59
Paul Weston

5.	Doing Theology for the Church's Mission: The Appropriation of Culture Kirsteen Kim	73
6.	A Theology of Culture for the Missionary Task: A Response to Kirsteen Kim Daniel Strange	101
Part II. Assessing the Shape of Theology and Mission in Dialogue
7.	Theology, Bible, and Mission Mark W. Elliott	119
8.	Doing Theology for the Church's Mission: A Historian's Perspective Brian Stanley	131
9.	Seeing and Believing Pete Ward	145
10.	Confessing Evangelical Theology in Dynamic Public Spaces Jason S. Sexton	171
Part III. The Practice of Shaping Theology for Mission
11.	The Widening of Christian Mission: C. René Padilla and the Intellectual Origins of Integral Mission David C. Kirkpatrick	193
12.	Embodiment as Social Healing between the Church and LGBT Community Andrew Marin	211
13.	Pioneering Mission for the Church's Theology Jonny Baker	229

14. Adopting a New Theological Paradigm for Doing Theology for the Church's Mission Krish Kandiah	247
Afterword Christopher J. H. Wright	269
Bibliography	273
Index	291